

beem063 Hackathon Main Presentation Brief 2026

You will work together in your groups to prepare a video that you will submit by Friday 14th August (10 weeks after the proposal video submission). This will be graded as a group, counting 10% to your grade on the module.

Your objective is to present a 5 minute video summarising your FinTech business that you build during the summer.

You should treat this as an opportunity to demonstrate your product, as if it were a pitch to a potential investor. Your presentation should be balanced between explaining any technical contributions, alongside what the product actually does and how it is of real value. You will also need to be clear about what stage you have reached compared to any longer business plan time horizon. When you submit your group document, it should include links to the video, and any other relevant links to your prototype product.

1. Potential Real Value of FinTech Product

Your mission as a group is to work in your teams on creating a real FinTech product. This is likely to be in the form of a prototype, as opposed to something real working in a real market place. You may of course find it helpful to have something working for real (eg hosted on a real server) for your career, but this is not expected. The main criterion you are judged on is its potential real value, which should be explained. In order for this to be understood, you will inevitably need to describe what the product is, what it seeks to solve, and why you believe it has potential to succeed. Depending on how it goes, this could just be an update of what you laid out in your proposal video.

2. Presentation

Remember to make the most of your different skills in the group. The aim of this presentation is to show what you have created, and sell it to a potential investor. It is up to you as a group how best to achieve this, you may all be involved, or even just one of you, depending on what you think will work best as a pitch. These criteria will be used to judge your submissions according to the following weightings:

Potential Real Value of FinTech Product(s)	70%
Presentation	30%
Organisation	10%
Effective use of Presentation Aids	10%
Language Proficiency and Presentation Style	10%
